The liberation of Cherbourg can not be long delayed.

The Allied troops are fighting in the streets and by yesterday afternoon had reached the sea within a mile of the port on the east side.

During a day of fierce fighting, with the support of naval bombardment, enemy strong points were reduced one by one, and the town was entered at many points simultaneously.

The mopping-up of other portions of the original outer defenses continues.

In the eastern sector our progress in the Fontenay area was maintained and our positions were further strengthened.

Further enemy counter-attacks near Ste. Honorine were beaten back.

Our forces continued their attacks on the enemy's supply system during the afternoon and evening yesterday and also gave immediate support to the land and naval forces assaulting Cherbourg.

The railway network east and south of Normandy was subjected to many attacks.

Air fields at Breteuil and Villacoublay were bombed and a large formation of medium bombers attacked supply dumps in the Senonches area with good results. Enemy opposition was on a limited scale yesterday, though flak was intense at many points.

Troop concentrations south of Caen were bombed last night.

position in Cherbourg and are cleaning out knots of resistance in the center of the port city, a front dispatch declared today, while British forces smashed out powerfully on the opposite end of the Normandy front.

Remnants of Nazi troops were fleeing from Cherbourg to the narrow Cap de la Hague, last jutting land finger northwest of the prize port, Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead reported.

In 24 hours the Americans took 3340 prisoners and hundreds more were being rounded up today. At least 20,000 Nazis have been captured in 20 days of invasion fighting.

"Patrols pushing into the central part of the city met small arms' fire from a few snipers, and small knots of resistance," Whitehead reported.

ULTIMATUM TO NAZIS

Field dispatches said Lt. Gen. Bradley's command had sent a second ultimatum to Cherbourg garrison troops demanding, "immediate unconditional surrender."

(The German communique said the ultimatum had been ignored.)

The cleanup of the prize port came as the British on the eastern Normandy front smashed into Nazi defenses between Caen and Tilly-sur-Seulles. They seized Fontenay Lepresnel, two miles east of Tilly, and threatened Tessel and Breteuilville, 2½ and 3 miles southeast.

Artillery, one unit to every eight yards, supported this sweeping assault by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's tanks and troops. Supreme headquarters in this morning's communique said "fighting everywhere" in the port of Cherbourg was "extremely severe," but that the full liberation "can not be long delayed."

MOP UP SQUADS

They were rooting out suicide squads of Germans as they neared the end of a fierce five-day battle to free the great supply

The Americans had been fighting in the making city since yesterday afternoon, when they entered it with a crushing three-way assault.

The German radio gave conflicting reports on the battle. A French language broadcast today informed the people of occupied Europe the city fell at 9 o'clock last night. Shortly thereafter, a German DNB News Agency broadcast informed the people of Germany that fighting still was going on in the city.

Another DNB broadcast said American tanks had penetrated the Cherbourg arsenal, one of the two main strong-points still holding out.

The tanks were blown up, the broadcast declared.

"The Americans took possession of the major part of the town of Cherbourg, but so far they did not capture the harbor and remaining coastal installations. In some of the outskirts of the town there are still German centers of resistance," it was declared.

DNB said this information had just been received, adding it was only a "question of a few hours" until the Germans would have used up their ammunition.

The heavy fighting in Cherbourg was fast destroying the famous transatlantic port, although Gen. Bradley tried to spare the town itself by directing artillery fire and naval bombardment only on forts and strong-points.

Doughboys were using bazookas, anti-tank guns and mortars to destroy the Germans one by one in house-to-house fighting.

RUSSIA—As Red Army troops encircle Vitebsk and fight in that city's streets, other Russian forces plunge on toward Mogilev and Bobruisk. An estimated 45,000 Germans are trapped in Vitebsk. Shaded area is German-held territory.

broken German Fatherland Line in White Russia today, leaving behind an island of 45,000 trapped enemy troops. These were being cut to pieces in the streets of Vitebsk.

As Russia's vital role in the Allied Teheran master plan to crush Germany this year unfolded front by front, German broadcasts noted with alarm that a fifth Red army had struck in the Ostrov sector. That would make a 325-mile front in the east, exclusive of the two Russian armies battering Finland.

At least four other great armies, equipped in part with American weapons, are poised on the Polish and Romanian fronts—waiting for the signal for a push toward Berlin in conjunction with Allied armies in the west and south.

Rolling over roads strewn with German wreckage, the Russians had thrown a broad belt of men and machines around Vitebsk, and were threatening Orsha, Mogilev and Bobruisk to the south.

From Moscow came reports that Red army men, fighting through the streets of Vitebsk where five divisions are encircled, had driven the Germans across the western Dvina river to the central part of the city.

The Red flag was flying over that part of Vitebsk on the east bank of the river, Soviet dispatches said, and one of the main buildings in the city had been taken.

The Germans admitted the Nazi bridgehead at Vitebsk has been cut off from rear communications. Moscow said more than 16,000 Germans had been killed. Hundreds of big guns, trucks and other equipment had been seized. The Germans' flight was called a "retreat in panic." One entire Nazi company came over to the Red Army side, said the Soviet bulletin.

1600 CENTERS FREED
In a three-day advance of more than 25 miles, the Russians had freed 1650 towns and villages. Their ultimate objective appeared to be a break-through to the Baltic Sea and German East Prussia.

The situation as given in Moscow bulletins and orders of the day by Marshal Stalin:

Gen. Bagramian's First Baltic Army had forced the Dvina river west of Vitebsk and cut the German escape highway to Lepel.

Col. Gen. Cherniakhovskiy's Third White Russian army broke through German positions north-east of Orsha.

Col. Gen. Zakharov's Second White Russian army forced the Pronya river, one of the main defenses of Mogilev.

CUT 50-MILE BREACH
Gen. Rokossovskiy's first White Russian army hammered out a 50-mile breach in German defenses on both sides of Bobruisk, forced the Drut river and swept forward seven miles.

Another Soviet column striking up from the area southwest of Bobruisk cut the Bobruisk-Luninets railway—one possible German escape channel.

Marshal Govorov's Leningrad army is battering its way toward Helsinki in Finland, while Gen. Meretskov's Karelian forces are making headway between Lakes Ladoga and Onega.

Vast Air Fleets Hammer Nazis

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

LONDON, June 26 (AP)—RAF Mosquitos, flying from Britain, maintained steady pressure on the enemy, both in Normandy and the German homeland overnight, while medium and heavy bombers from Italy hit Budapest, Hungary's capital. Continuing the air operations that on Sunday kept five air armadas—four from Britain and one from Italy—drumming German installations in France virtually all day, Mosquitos last night attacked German troop concentrations, railroads and supply dumps near the French battlefronts and industrial objectives in Hornberg in Germany.

Beyond the Normandy front lines, Mosquitos left German supply dumps hidden in the forest of Bretagne on the Seine a mass of flames. Crewmen said the fires stretched two miles and were advancing when they left.

The Mosquitos bombed German troops in the village of Evrecy, southwest of Caen. Railroads north of Laigle and at Argentan were among other targets.

Supreme headquarters announced that American Thunderbolt dive-bombers struck German gun emplacements in Cherbourg. Some 3500 warplanes participated in Sunday's attacks, ranging from Pas-de-Calais to the southern coast of France.

Two mighty fleets, one American and one British, battered the Nazi winged bomb emplacements at Pas-de-Calais. Absent yesterday, the robots began coming over again during the night but many were blasted before they got across the Channel.

FRANCE—Fighting still raged today in the (1) streets of Cherbourg, now infested with American forces, and complete liberation of the city was not far off. To the east, Yanks (2) passed St. Vaast, Quettehou and Barleux... while, in the (3) Tilly area, British forces advanced two miles. North of Caen (4), the British repulsed a series of Nazi counter-attacks.

Predict Dewey All-N. E. Choice

By FRANK REILLY

Record-American Staff Writer

CHICAGO, June 26 (INS)—Following the lead of Massachusetts and Connecticut, all of New England's 92 convention votes will be definitely in the Dewey first-ballot lineup by tonight, state delegation leaders predicted today.

Connecticut became the second New England state to hop the Dewey bandwagon when Gov. Baldwin announced after a caucus at the Stevens Hotel, he had been authorized to notify Dewey managers that the New York governor could count on the Nutmeg State's 16 votes on the first ballot.

"Since I have been in Chicago, I have not seen any of Dewey's managers," Gov. Baldwin said. "The Connecticut delegates arrived at their decision on their own. There was no pressure."

Earlier, Gov. Saltonstall announced he would heartily support Dewey, breaking the ice for Bay State delegates. They voted 30 to 5 for Dewey at their caucus, and the five dissenters are expected to swing into line before the balloting starts.

The delegations from Vermont, Maine, New Hampshire and Rhode Island were to hold caucuses this afternoon. Rhode Island, which had been struggling along hopefully with Gov. Bricker, was counted on to throw its 3 votes to Dewey.

While none of the New England groups have reached any decision on their vote for vice-president, many delegates are known to favor Gov. Warren of California.

The latter was in conference last night with eight governors, including Willis of Vermont. Blood of New Hampshire and Baldwin of Connecticut.

The leader of the Dewey forces in the Massachusetts delegation, Charles B. Rugg, former Worcester County district attorney, is said to have convinced Gov. Saltonstall that Dewey would win on the first ballot, thus placing Massachusetts in an awkward position if its delegates held out.

GOP Piles on Dewey Wagon

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

CHICAGO, June 26 (INS)—Gov. Dewey of New York was a first-ballot cinch for the Republican presidential nomination today, with Gov. Warren of California, who will make the keynote speech tonight, a favorite to be his runningmate.

The GOP convention assembled for its first session with its presidential nominee already known and its platform already written.

Singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," and a welcome by Illinois' Gov. Dwight Green formally started things rolling at 11:15 a. m. (E. W. T.).

Interest centered largely on the possibility that Gov. Bricker of Ohio will withdraw from the one-sided race in order to place Dewey's name in nomination in an unprecedented display of party unity.

If Bricker does this, many convention leaders believe he will

Republicans agreed on internal co-operation even though opposed to a "world state."

PLATFORM O.K. ASSURED

Overwhelming adoption of the platform is assured.

In the race for the presidential nomination, Gov. Bricker came to Chicago Thursday a beaten man and he lost ground heavily over the week-end. Last Thursday, an International News Service coast to coast poll of delegations showed Dewey had 700 delegates pledged, when but 529 were necessary for nomination.

This morning, the INS poll shows Dewey with a total of 835, to but 128 for Bricker, the rest scattered or undecided.

(The Associated Press polled the 1057 delegates thus: Dewey, 589; Bricker, 76; Stassen, 36; Willis, 22; Griswold, 6; MacArthur, 1, unpledged and unclaimed, 327.)

Dewey's tremendous lead was accelerated early Sunday morning when Illinois stepped on his bandwagon by giving him 50 out of its 59 votes. Pennsylvania followed last night by giving him its entire delegation of 70 votes.

Michigan leaped aboard with all of its 41 ballots—a foreseen conclusion as Dewey was born in that state. New Jersey gave him 34 out of 35.

Gov. Warren, of California, meanwhile, said his state would cast all 50 of its votes "for some candidate" on his first ballot. He meant Dewey.

RUN OUT ON BRICKER

Bricker, meanwhile, began losing votes in the smaller delegations even as they arrived in Chicago. He lost four in Colorado, five in Florida, seven in Georgia, all launch a stampede that will end in his own nomination for the vice-presidency.

BRICKER NOT TO QUIT

Thus far, Bricker managers insist the Ohioan will let his name go before the convention and take his beating. They add he will then go before the convention in person after Dewey wins and move the nomination of the New Yorker be made unanimous.

Republican chiefs were generally pleased with their tentative platform.

It has strong planks on the war, foreign policies and farm affairs. It features a demand that the armed forces themselves be consulted in the writing of the peace and that the Senate ratify any treaty ending the war. In an appeal for the farm vote, the platform denounces regimentation and the doctrine of scarcity.

Two Senators—Vandenberg of Michigan, and Brooks of Illinois—are authors of the foreign policy plank. Vandenberg wrote most of it but Brooks added a postscript dealing with the armed forces and Senate ratification of all peace treaties.

Some internationalists and nationalists were displeased with the platform. Gov. Edge of New Jersey, objected that it contained "weasel words" but many mid-Westerners expressed regret the

Fair, Warmer Days Return

The storm which has deluged New England with rainfall of near-flood proportions gave way today to broken clouds, and the weather bureau forecast "fair and warmer tonight and Tuesday."

Scattered thunder showers this afternoon were expected to mark the end of the long rainy spell which filled streams and rivers to the danger point.

The Boston rainfall for June reached 5.33 inches, about three inches above normal. The fall in New Hampshire was 10 inches, heaviest in the 74 years records have been kept.

The Bay State storm brought death to Colen J. MacIver, 38, of Winnemay st., Natick, who was killed when his automobile skidded on the Worcester turnpike in Natick.

Mystery in Death Of Envoy, Wife

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—The coroner's office asked the State Department today for permission to perform autopsies on the bodies of Andre Redekam, 64-year-old first secretary of the Norwegian embassy, and his wife, Louise, 69, found dead in their apartment last night.

Authorities reported finding a joint letter addressed to their two sons, lieutenants in the Norwegian army, giving instructions for disposal of their effects.

A jet of a gas stove was open, but windows in the apartment likewise were open. Pill boxes were found on the floor.

Dedelem, for 25 years in his country's diplomatic service, had been in Washington three years.

Willkie's Plans Depend on Ticket

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Wendell Willkie says he has no plans for attending the Republican national convention, and not until the 1944 ticket is named will he reveal his political action course for the future.

"I want to remain flexible for the time being," he said.

Open Hearings Are Police Need

This is the second of a series of articles prompted by the recent Boston police board trial and conviction of Capt. John A. Dorsey for alleged neglect of duty—the latest developments in the long story of political interference in the department that has lowered its prestige with the public and seriously affected its morale and efficiency.

By BARRINGTON WELLES

After struggling for nearly a year, Atty.-Gen. Robert T. Bushnell was forced six months ago to concede his defeat and nol pros his serious charges against Capt. John A. Dorsey and several ranking police officers of the Boston department.

Despite this setback, however, Bushnell persisted in his political sharpshooting. No less a personage than Gov. Saltonstall was his target as he attempted to hale the chief executive before the grand jury to answer a mysterious set of questions.

Naturally and properly the Governor declined.

Other city and state department heads were likewise harassed by Bushnell in the effort to achieve his ends. All failed, and in the reckoning he could count the loss of faith in him by state police officials alienated by his methods.

However, the attorney general's activities did reach a climax in the conviction of Capt. Dorsey for alleged neglect of duty, but not before a grand jury.

Preceding the police board trial, Bushnell disappeared for several weeks. And when he returned he had no explanation to offer for his absence.

Meantime, the governor was conducting his own inquiry into the situation and, some time after Bushnell's return, named a fact-finding group of attorneys, each above party politics and local concern.

Yanks Press Saipan Gains

By Associated Press

Saipan and Hengyang bore the main weight of the Pacific war today, the Allies steadily enlarging their hold on the Marianas island and Japan countering with a grand-scale land drive seemingly about to engulf the Chinese city.

CAPTAIN NOW—The head of the WAC Recruiting-Publicity office in Boston, Marian P. Mitchell of Teaneck, N. J., has been promoted from first lieutenant to captain. She joined the WAC in February, 1943.

Bachrach Photo

American marines and infantrymen backed the thousands of Japanese beleaguered on Saipan into its northern half and apparently could take the island's major city, Garapan, whenever they wished. The city, of some 10,000, offered no resistance to patrols and possibly has been evacuated.

A report from the U. S. expeditionary fleet said Mt. Tapotchau, 1554-foot peak which dominates much of the island, was captured and held against counterattack.

Hengyang, important junction on the Hankow-Canton railroad, was under increasing pressure from several Japanese forces developing multiple attacks such as encircled and felled Changsha to the north. One column was four miles from the city. Others were six and nine.

CHINESE PESSIMISTIC

Chungking authorities pressed extreme pessimism over the developing battle. Success for Japan at Hengyang would greatly advance her aim of severing east and west China by making a barrier of the railroad from Hong Kong to Peiping.

To Adm. Spruance, fifth fleet commander who loves his symphonies, there was sweet music in the report of damage inflicted by his ships and planes on the Japanese fleet in last week's battle off Saipan. Adm. Nimitz supplied this boxscore yesterday, for the June 10-23 period:

747 enemy planes downed, 30 ships sunk, 51 damaged, two probably sunk and 13 barges destroyed. In the June 18 air battle in which the Japanese fleet's planes sought to cripple Task Force 58 and break up the Saipan invasion, 402 planes were destroyed, a record total for a single engagement, eclipsing the highest toll in the battle of Britain.

JAPS LOSE SIX CARRIERS

Included in this scope were six enemy aircraft carriers—the heart of modern fleets—sunk or damaged, probably the entire carrier force of the imperial force which declined battle June 19.

Southwestern Pacific airmen hit Sorong airfield on New Guinea, and bombed Manokwari, Palau, Veleai, Truk and Rabaul. On Biak, Gen. MacArthur's soldiers added 345 more Japanese dead to the record, which since May 27 has climbed to 2333.

Chinese, British and American forces inched closer to their north Burma objectives, breaking into Mogaung's defenses and advancing at Myittha, keys to reopening the Burma Road. In northeast India the Japanese were still retreating from the British, who now have virtually ended the threat to the Assam-Bengal supply line.

Yanks Occupy Italy Supply Port

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ROME, June 26 (AP)—American troops of the Fifth Army seized the port of Piombino without opposition yesterday, thereby gaining a valuable advanced supply base for continued thrust up Italy's west coast, while American and French troops converged on the inland town of Siena. Allied headquarters announced today.

Pursuing the enemy, who was forced to evacuate Piombino to avoid encirclement, American infantry and tanks stabbed within five miles of Suvereto and within 38 miles of Leghorn.

Further inland the Germans were rolled back upon the approaches to Siena from three directions. One Fifth Army force cracked through the villages of Torniella and Scavalla and threatened the town of Monticiano, less than 15 miles southwest of Siena.

French troops advanced on the west side of the river Ombrone, 20 miles south of Siena, while other French forces approached from the southwest took Castiglione della Pescaia and Rocca di Corsica.

Between these points and the Tyrrhenian coast the reinforced enemy was employing considerable numbers of Tiger tanks, which were defeated in a midnight battle in the area of Massa Maritima. The enemy delaying position in that sector was by-passed or wiped out.

Convention Opened By Sons of Italy

PITTSFIELD, June 26—With more than 400 delegates attending, business sessions were started today at the 31st annual convention of the Sons of Italy. Judge Felix Forte of Boston, supreme venerable, will be principal speaker at tonight's convention banquet.

The delegates today were addressed by Mayor James Fallon, Dist. Atty. Charles R. Alberti and police Chief John L. Sullivan. The convention closes tomorrow with election of officers.

Russians to Buy Billions Worth on Credit in U. S.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)

American lend-lease officials are already tackling the problem of how to help Russia rebuild and expand billions of dollars worth of shattered industrial plants, with the result that lend-lease to that country is undergoing a profound change in preparation for peacetime commercial trade.

The change reportedly is part of a broad plan for assisting Russian reconstruction and helping maintain a high level of employment in this country during the transition from war to peace production here. Soviet officials are understood to have the plan under consideration.

Its central provisions is that lend-lease shipments must stop promptly with the end of war but that materials useful in peacetime pursuits—electric generators, for instance—will be shipped just as if lend-lease were continuing, except they will go on credit.

Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said in Russia a few days ago that Soviet purchases from this country would run into billions. Part of his purpose in going to the Soviet union is to get some idea of what the Russians want to buy.

Two Navy Men Cited in Pacific

Award of the Air Medal to AR 2c Leonard D. Chesmore, 23 of Franklin st., Holliston, listed as missing in action, was announced today by the First Naval District.

Chesmore, member of a Navy bomber crew, was cited for skillfully manning his station during a low-level bombing attack on Nauru Island, Dec. 24, 1943, "continuing to carry out his duties with cool efficiency until his ship crashed into the sea."

Ph-M 1c George Christian Schaffer, 23, of Howe st., Methuen, was commended by Adm. Nimitz for the heroic part he played in attempting to save the aircraft carrier Yorktown.

OPA Opens R. I. Gas Racket Drive

PROVIDENCE, June 26—Opening a drive to smash a New England-wide black market in gasoline coupons, Rhode Island OPA authorities today subpoenaed records of 18 major distributors in this state and issued warrants for five station operators on charges of purchasing 100-gallon inventory coupons.

"We are acting to smash the biggest black market uncovered in this section since gasoline rationing began," declared Christopher Del Sesto, State OPA director.

He said the racketeers' activities were spread throughout New England.

Dies in Mid-Air Crash

SEATTLE, June 26 (AP)—Two Navy fighter planes collided in the air and crashed into the sea yesterday 13 miles off Astoria, Ore. 13th Naval District headquarters announced today. One of the pilots was picked up by a Navy plane. The other went down with his ship.

Bond Sales Now $230,600,000

Massachusetts overall sales in the Fifth War Loan drive total $230,600,000 today, of 27.8 per cent of the state's $828,000,000 goal to be reached by July 8.

The big guns, industrial corporations—insurance companies, hospitals, colleges, trusts and other institutions are expected today to start blasting a substantial path toward the campaign goal.

Buying of smaller domination "E" bonds has been encouraging, according to the War Finance Committee. A total of $28,500,000, or 25.4 per cent of the $112,000,000 quota, has been subscribed; late tabulations show.

The small purchasers must keep this record up while efforts are concentrated on big buyers, according to F. W. Denio, chairman of the statewide drive.

"Combat teams" composed of wounded veterans convalescing in this area will continue to tour the State to stimulate purchases. Each team of four heroes—one from each branch of service—will make appearances this week in Lawrence, Haverhill, Lynn and Lowell. The touring all-service show, "Direct Hit," with 86 men and women from the armed forces in the east will continue their tour, appearing tonight in Lynn.

Fauci Jailed, With $8000 Fine

Found guilty of violating OPA liquor ceiling prices, Charles M. Fauci, Boston and Medford wholesale liquor dealer, was sentenced to four months in prison and fined $3000 by Judge Charles E. Wyanski, Jr., in federal court today. Sentence and fine are effective July 26. The corporation, headed by Fauci, was fined $5000.

The government charged Fauci sold 350 cases of liquor at $42 a case to Mrs. Margaret J. Roach, Bridge st., Lowell, cafe owner, last Christmas, when the ceiling for the brand was $29.18.

Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. Joseph J. Gottlieb tossed a sinister note into court proceedings when he quoted Fauci as telling him:

"What do you want me to get . . . a bullet in my back?"

Gottlieb said he was conferring with Fauci about others involved in over-charging at the time.

Fauci is under two other indictments which charge him and his corporation with conspiracy to sell liquor at the double prevailing OPA ceiling prices.

Goering in Charge Of Berlin Defenses

LONDON, June 26 (AP)—France at Algiers said today Reichsmarschal Goering had been charged by Hitler with the defense of Germany proper and that he already had set up headquarters in Berlin.

Goering will direct the Todt organization—which built Germany's West and Atlantic Walls—in the building of a new inner line of fortifications, the broadcast added.

Hunt Slayer In Brockton

Acting on orders of Asst. Dist.-Atty. John L. Wheatley and working in utmost secrecy, state detectives today centered their investigation of the kidnap-sex slaying of little Frances McGrath to Brockton, where they were reported on the trail of a new suspect.

SEEK HIDEOUT

Shift of the main scene of operations to Brockton today came after 16 days of intensive questioning of more than a dozen suspects and checking on numerous leads since the 10-year-old Dorchester girl vanished after leaving a Scituate Harbor bowling alley on the night of June 10. Her body was found in a Norwell woodland six days later.

An autopsy report disclosed that the tiny victim was held captive by her abductor for about four days before she was slain, but so far police have been unable to find any trace of the kidnaper's hideout or any clue to the scene of the murder.

As the Brockton probe got underway today other detectives questioned a Norwell war worker who is reported to have attempted to lure two 14 and 15-year-old girls into his automobile.

Investigators were checking through his employers to determine his whereabouts on the days the little McGrath girl was missing, and with Scituate residents to learn if his car had been seen in Scituate Harbor the night Frances disappeared.

SAILOR CLEARED

Meanwhile, a Falmouth sailor, A. W. O. L. from the Navy, was exhaustively questioned in Falmouth by state detectives and entirely cleared of any connection with the McGrath murder.

Acting on the tip of an unidentified woman, Falmouth police picked him up and State Detective J. Norman Butler hastened to the Cape to question him.

Although the sailor once lived and worked in the vicinity of Scituate, relatives and neighbors completely supported his alibi that he had been in Falmouth on the night of Frances McGrath's kidnapping.

Hopeful Spectators Await Noxon Film

By PAULINE WARREN

PITTSFIELD, June 26—Dr. Milton Helpm of New York, chief defense witness and a veteran of 7500 autopsies, returned to the stand today in the trial of John F. Noxon, Jr., wealthy socialite, charged with murdering his baby son.

Dr. Helpm was under cross-examination by Dist. Atty. Charles A. Alberti.

But of chief interest to those who thronged the courtroom was the home-made movie film, taken when little Lawrence was four months old.

A preview of the film was given before defense and prosecution counsel and Superior Court Justice Abraham E. Pinanski, and whether or not it is to be shown the jury rests with Judge Pinanski.

In his opening, Defense Counsel Walter Donovan said the movies would show the baby with arms stretched over his head, a condition which would belie the state's contention that the child was weak and utterly unable to reach out for the electric cord which carried a death charge.

The jurors returned to their duties after another restful weekend, during which they attended services at the South Congregational Church and later lunched at a hotel in Lenox.

Tornado Relief Work Speeded

PITTSBURGH, June 25 (AP)—Rehabilitation efforts, spearheaded by the Red Cross, continued today among thousands made homeless in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland by a devastating tornado which took a toll of at least 146 lives and injured more than 1000 Friday night.

First official estimate of property damage, meanwhile, was made known today by Jerry Wakefield, assistant national building advisor for the Red Cross, who said at Clarksburg, W. Va.: "About $3,000,000 would be a conservative estimate."

West Virginia's death toll stood at 102, Pennsylvania's at 41 and Maryland at three.

Plan Further Purge Of Rome Fascists

ROME, June 26 (AP)—Lt. Col. Charles Poletti, Allied military government commissioner for Rome, conferred today with the Italian Committee of National Liberation and said later the group would announce a list of heads of Rome government agencies to be purged for Fascist activities.

Ensign's Mother Dies of Leukemia

In the waters of the Normandy invasion, the Navy Department today carried to Ens. John A. Elliott the sad news that his mother, Mrs. Katherine E. Elliott, 42, of Laurel st., Milton, had died of acute leukemia despite daily blood transfusions.

The victim, a deputy collector in the Boston Internal Revenue office, died at the New England Hospital for Women and Children while scores of volunteers stood by to offer their blood.

A widow, Mrs. Elliott had been a deputy collector for two years. Besides the Navy son, she leaves two daughters, Friscilla and Barbara Elliott.

Mrs. Higginson In Coma 11th Day

The condition of Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, Jr., 31-year-old socialite, remained unchanged today at Deaconess Hospital where doctors reported she shows no sign of emerging from a coma which has lasted 11 days.

Meanwhile, Connecticut State Police continued search for the attacker who bludgeoned her in her home at West Cornwall, Ct., inflicting 23 head wounds.

Dr. Gilbert Horrax, noted neurosurgeon, reported Mrs. Higginson's pulse, temperature and respiration have been running evenly, but that she shows no sign of returning consciousness.

Shots Halt Yeaq, Pal Escapes

Caught looting a safe in the Prudential Loan Co., in Cornhill, two Negro soldiers smashed a plate glass window in a rear door and jumped 12 feet to the Beattle st. sidewalk early today, setting off a police chase in which two shots were fired.

One of the soldiers surrendered to Patrolman Frank D. Mirabets in Parmenter st., and was treated at City Hospital for severe cuts on the hands and a fractured kneecap.

Police said they found $30 worth of jewelry in his pockets.

Thieves Feast, Don't Do Dishes

Hungry thieves with hearty appetites for cold cash and hot breakfasts are wanted today by Lynn police.

Alfred Toletti, 55, of New Park st., Lynn, returned home early today to find thieves had ransacked every room in his house and escaped with $121.

Toletti reported the theft to police and went about straightening the room. When he came to the kitchen, he phoned police again.

"They're gluttons and they must be pretty calm about their work. They had a big breakfast of bacon and eggs, crackers and milk, toast and coffee, and even took time to set places for themselves. The only thing they didn't do was the dishes," said Toletti.

Cut Red Tape

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—The Army has no use for red tape—499,980 yards of it.

The Army Air Forces material command has revealed the cancellation of a contract for that much red tape with the Industrial Tape Corp., of New Brunswick, N. J., after finding olive drab tape is better suited for sealing shipments or planes against sea moisture.

The New Brunswick firm will make the new olive drab tape, the Army said.

STOCKHOLM, June 26 (AP) — Germans are calling yesterday their black Sunday because of the defeat at Cherbourg and the Russian break-through, Aftonbladet's Berlin correspondent reported today.

Rescued From Japs, Priest Coming Home

The Rev. William E. Hagan, S. V. D., one of the American missionaries rescued when American troops stormed ashore at Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea, is coming home for a Boston visit before returning to his work in the Southwest Pacific.

So he disclosed to the Associated Press in Australia, where he and priests and nuns were held prisoners by the Japs for 14 months have been recuperating from that ordeal.

Fr. Hagan, first Boston priest to be ordained in the Society of the Divine Word, is the son of Mrs. Sarah Hagan of Rush st., Somerville. Rescued with him was another Somerville priest, the Rev. Michael J. Clerkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Clerkin of Ibbett st.

A native of East Boston, Fr. Hagan was ordained in 1937 and left immediately for Dutch New Guinea. His mother and sister Dorothy received a letter from him three weeks ago, the first they had in more than two years.

In his interview in Australia, the rescued priest told of slaving for Jap captors, and went on:

"We were told at night that all of us who could walk were to march to the beach next morning and carry back sacks of rice.

"About half way down the trail a little native boy came running up and told us in pidgin English that American ships were coming in the harbor.

GUNS RUMBLE

"About that time the ships' big guns rumbled and we couldn't hold back our joy.

"Our Japanese guards told us it was their navy and it had just come down from the Philippines to stage a battle practice.

"The native boy hid behind me and kept saying: 'No Japanese. American true.' He was as glad the Americans had finally come as any of us."

The Japs at first tried to make the missionaries flee with them.

"Many of the sisters were too weak to travel, but we tried to carry them at first. Finally the Japs were running so fast we couldn't keep up with them and they told us they were going to have to leave us behind for the 'cruel Americans.'"

Navy Nurses Cheer Invasion Wounded

By LORELLE HEARST

Special Correspondent, Boston Evening American
LONDON, June 26—Early this morning we arrived at a lovely old coastal town and my first thought was that it looked like a resort to spend holidays in—to laugh and be gay.

Lt. J. B. Smith, staff press liaison officer to Adm. Ramsey, and I practically flew through the countryside in a jeep on our way to the big U. S. Naval Hospital where our wounded from Normandy are brought first after reaching the English coast.

The building is the largest I have ever seen and the work the doctors and nurses are doing here is wonderful. Not only are they doing a good job medically but they make the boys as content and happy as possible.

The head nurse, Lt. Com. Heck is a woman with a soft voice, understanding blue eyes and the kindest heart. She is never too busy to make a personal case out of every boy who comes into the hospital.

FACES LIGHT UP

She took me all over the wards and the officers' rooms and I was able to see how everyone's face lighted up when she walked past their beds. She knows all of their names and all about what happened to them and about their families and homes.

Her nurses are all young and capable and many of them very beautiful. I saw at least two girls who were so pretty they could easily become magazine cover girls. It does your heart good to see these hundreds of lovely American girls who chose this job instead of one full of comfort and glamour. The girls are proud and happy about what they are doing.

It is good for the boys to see pretty women around. No matter how banged up a boy is, it seems to make him feel better.

Since D-Day, the nurses have seen scores of wounded pass through this hospital and many have been on duty 18 to 20 hours a day. Still they have enough energy left over to keep a lovely big smile on their faces.

LITTLE TIME OFF

When they do have a little time off, there are nice clubs to visit in the neighborhood and spots in the beautiful countryside for picnics—with handsome naval officers for beaux.

Some girls told me they are happier than they have ever been in their lives—happy in the fact they are doing a worthwhile job for their country and yet having their simple enjoyment also.

I was told our Navy WAVES are not allowed to be assigned to overseas duty. If this is the case it is a great mistake because there is so much to be done over here and many important jobs the WAVES could do.

The nurses and the WAVES have their different spheres of activity. They would not conflict. They would co-operate for the benefit of the stricken boys.

The longer I stayed in the hospital the more impressed I was with the high morale and cheerfulness of the wounded kids. And I realize that much of this is due to the Navy nurses who give them so much care and are so kind and understanding.

Pacific Tars Buy Bonds

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—Navy officers and men in the South Pacific are investing an average of $24 per man per month in war bonds to help provide the weapons they themselves use, Adm. Halsey said in a radio talk from the Pacific.

Whisky Protest Up to Methodists

ATLANTA, June 26 (AP)—A report criticizing the War Production Board's decision allowing production of alcohol for whisky manufacturing in August was scheduled to reach the floor of the southeastern jurisdictional conference of the Methodist Church here today.

The committee offering the report was to recommend that an official protest be made by the conference to Washington.

This and other important policy matters involving war and peace, racial tolerance, juvenile delinquency and economic justice were to go before the 334 delegates representing the jurisdiction's 2,146,000 members in nine states.

Former Chelsea Man On Trial for Murder

ELLSWORTH, Me., June 26 (AP)—Walter F. Johnson, 41, was summoned to trial in Hancock Superior Court today on a charge of murder in the shooting of his 30-year-old wife, Erma, last Sept. 30, in their home on the Ellsworth estate of Henry W. Cushing, retired banker.

Johnson, a Chelsea, Mass., native who was employed as a caretaker by Cushing, maintains Mrs. Johnson was shot in the head when his rifle discharged accidentally while he was cleaning it.

Lawrence Soldier Killed

AMARILLO, Tex., June 26 (AP)—Army officials announce the death of TS Edward A. Ramey of Lawrence, Mass. He was killed when his car was in collision with a truck.

Flier Trapped in Grand Canyon

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., June 26 (AP)—Rangers rode horseback today along the rocky walls of the Grand Canyon on a 40-mile trip toward an Army airman stranded on a plateau 500 feet above the Colorado river and 4500 feet below the north rim of the great chasm.

A second party, including a U. S. coastguardsman, readied here a knockdown boat and ocean-type rescue equipment, flown from the Pacific coast. Pack animals will carry them to a camp the Rangers will set up 400 feet across the stream from the base of Tonto plateau.

The flier is believed one of three who parachuted Wednesday from a heavy bomber when it encountered temporary motor trouble.

A searching plane dipped low in the gorge yesterday to drop food and water after crewmen sighted a parachute and a man walking nearby.

The Rangers and seaman plan to fire with cannon a rope line across the river, which thunders through the narrow gorge walls at lightning speed there.

The boat, knocked down into sections for transport along the trails, will be reassembled opposite the plateau and guided with the line across the river.

Look Out for Children, Goodwin Warns

With virtually all school children now on summer vacations, Motor Vehicle Registrar Frank A. Goodwin today renewed his appeal to motorists to continue extra caution in driving.

He reported no auto deaths in Boston last week and no child victims among the five persons killed in highway accidents throughout the state.

O'Reilly, Collins Fete Date Waited

Officials of the Irish Societies of Boston and the city's Public Celebrations Committee were scheduled to meet today to select a new date for the public ceremony in honor of the 100th birthday anniversary of John Boyle O'Reilly, Irish poet and patriot, and Patrick A. Collins, one-time mayor of Boston.

The ceremony scheduled for Sunday at the Hatch Shell was postponed because of unfavorable weather.

At St. Mary's Church, Brookline, the Rt. Rev. Michael J. Spalme, pastor, devoted his sermon to a eulogy of O'Reilly, "the poet laureate of the Irish people in America."

Hollywood twin beds, because they blend well with other home furnishings, have become very popular. They are extremely comfortable due to their box spring construction and restful cotton mattress. The headboards are covered in rich quilted materials, or you may have them in maple or mahogany finish. If you plan to change over from your present full size bed to twins, the Hollywood twin bed is the practical way. They are the most comfortable beds on the market today.

Gardens Again Need Cultivation

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and superintendent of the Record-American-Advertiser Demonstration Garden on Boston Common.

Continued wet weather is offering a real problem to those who took on too large a garden.

Gardens that were completely cultivated only a week ago are badly in need of attention now, so plan to cultivate again as soon as there is a break in the weather.

Gardens are now advanced enough to show the difference between a well planned garden and one that was not planned. Some gardeners are getting too much of one crop and not enough of another. Some also have had crop failures. Keep in mind that there is still time to plant many crops.

USE CARE PLANTING SEEDS

This job must be done carefully.
I would suggest that you refer to our charts given earlier on planting depths. Late planted seeds must be planted deeper.

Several gardeners have asked the question whether they can transplant beets and turnips that have been thinned out of the row.
These seedlings can be transplanted but they must be handled carefully. Be sure that the roots are not damaged and shade a little if the sun is too bright.

NEEDS EXTRA FERTILIZER

Gardeners who are working on sod land may find that their crops are getting a check in growth and poor color. This indicates a lack of plant food, mainly nitrogen. In most gardens of this type it will pay to side-dress your crops with a complete fertilizer.

Cultivate this fertilizer in and you will be pleased with the results.

PRUNE TOMATOES CARE-FULLY—If you are planning to stake your tomatoes be sure to prune them carefully. This is the period when training counts.

Police

siderations and holding the respect of the entire community. Their fact-finding investigation, insofar as Capt. Dorsey was concerned, was completed and without doubt they found evidence which, fundamentally or inferentially, warranted the bringing of Capt. Dorsey before a police trial board.

But, if the facts are correct—and they have not yet been denied—whatever evidence was found applicable to Dorsey was equally applicable to every other ranking department officer in charge of any part of the city where violation of the law live or carry on their illicit operations.

It may or may not have been that politics was rearing its ugly head when one of the first acts of Police Commr. Thomas F. Sullivan, after his appointment in succession to Joseph F. Timilty, was to call on the attorney general.

Timilty had been thrice given a clean bill of health by the courts in the campaign Bushnell had directed against him. Hence the significance of the visit that seemed to indicate the new police commissioner was to have Bushnell's full co-operation and whatever evidence the attorney general professed to have relative to department maladministration.

But less than two months later, Bushnell not pressed the indictments he had obtained against Dorsey and the other ranking officials.

VOLPE RESIGNS

This action came 48 hours after Bushnell's first assistant, Frank G. Volpe, who had aided him throughout the preparation of the case, resigned.

The reader should bear in mind that it was more than a year ago that Bushnell obtained indictments against former Commr. Timilty, Supt. Edward W. Fallon, Deputy Supts. James R. Claffin and John M. Anderson; Capts. Dorsey and Edward J. Keating; and Sgt. Arthur M. Eunson, who since has died.

The indictments were quashed on June 4 of last year by Judge James C. Donnelly, and in due time Bushnell brought forth a new set of indictments, including an additional one against Timilty.

Judge Frank J. Donahue had quashed the new indictment against Timilty last July 2 but not before he made an important ruling when he declared the attorney general had "no right to go on a fishing expedition in the confines of the grand jury room."

MONEY BEFORE JURY

The ruling concerned Bushnell's action in bringing money belonging to Timilty before the grand jury in obtaining an indictment against the former commissioner. As it subsequently turned out, Timilty proved to the court that the money was placed in the bank safe deposit box before he became police commissioner. Yet the former police head, for months was under the stigma of having "hot money" in his possession.

Bushnell, however, won a temporary victory on July 22 when Judge John V. Spaulding denied the motions of the defendants to quash the new set of indictments and ordered them to go to trial.

Just six months later, as the case was scheduled to go to trial, Bushnell entered the nol pros of the indictments.

OPEN HEARINGS

It was after this failure, however, that there began the behind-the-scenes shifts which culminated in the Dorsey trial.

Hearings of charges against police officers should be open to the public which pays the bills for its law enforcement.

Boston police department morale cannot be restored by wire-pulling behind the scenes.

Certainly, a hand-picked group—whether it be a trial board of officers conveniently reduced in rank, a jury or even judges—cannot render an impartial verdict with fear of the future hovering above it.

Nor can its verdict restore the Boston police department to the recognition which it held through out the nation under the late Commr. Stephen O'Meara—a wise, efficient administrator and the only commissioner Boston has known since the turn of the century who was undominated by patrolman or legislator, mayor or governor.

Tomorrow's installment discloses how an inept political appointee and his Beacon Hill sponsors allowed the police strike to occur, with its result of major demoralization of the department.

Veterans' Friend

Q—I would like to know what amount of money is taken from soldier's pay for a Class B allotment; also how long does a soldier remain in the Pacific theater of operations before he is granted a furlough? A. E. M., Salem.

A—The sum of $22 is deducted from the soldier's pay. The Army has started the rotation system of furloughing men in the Pacific area 18 months and over.

Q—Is a former member of the National Guard who resigned at time of mobilization and was placed in Reserves for seven-year period, entitled to wear honorable discharge button? L. J. C., Boston.

A—No. He is not eligible to apply for discharge button because he was not on active duty following the President's Emergency Act.

Q—Does the G. I. bill, recently signed by the President, contain a clause which will give veterans who requested discharge for being over 38 years of age mustering-out pay privileges? L. N. G., Boston.

A—No. The mustering-out pay bill was an entirely separate act of legislation. However, there was a recent attempt in Congress to include veterans who requested discharge, but the bill is still before the House Committee on Military Affairs.

Q—Are there any provisions in the G. I. bill which will affect World War I veterans? A. F., Woburn.

A—None, except that additional veterans' hospitals will be constructed, which will be available to a veteran who is in need of care and eligible for admission.

Q—Is there any way a veteran might be kept posted as to when Civil Service exams are to be held? A. H. C., Dorchester.

A—Contact State Civil Service Office, State House, and also Federal Civil Service, Federal

Building, and request notices of position you are applying for.

Awarding of Medal Is Simple Ceremony

By HUCK FINNEGAN

EIGHTH AIR FORCE, England—Citation day at the air base. Raw and damp with intermittent flecks of rain. Non-coms and officers stand at attention as Col. E. M. Whittan, commanding officer, prepares to make the awards. There is a Wellesley boy in the group—one Louis Paltrineri, aged 19.

The procedure is simple. An officer reads from a scroll: "For extraordinary achievement while serving as radio operator-gunner on a B-17 airplane (Flying Fortress) on many heavy bombardment missions over enemy-occupied Continental Europe."

"In addition to warding off many enemy attacks from his gun position, Sgt. Paltrineri distinguished himself by calm and skillful handling of his radio during aerial attack. The courage, coolness and skill displayed by Sgt. Paltrineri on all these occasions reflect the highest credit upon himself and the armed forces of the United States."

MOTHER IS WIDOW

Sgt. Paltrineri takes one pace forward, Col. Whittan one pace forward. The colonel pins the Distinguished Flying Cross on the left side of Paltrineri's tunic. Paltrineri salutes. Col. Whittan returns it. Paltrineri steps back into line. That is all.

Later you take the young sergeant aside. You learn his father is dead, his mother lives at 43 Leary st., Wellesley. He graduated from Wellesley High in June of '42 and enlisted on his 18th birthday—July 30, 1942.

Last year he married Treva Lynch, a Nebraska girl he met while stationed at Camp Keeney. He's awaiting word daily that he has become a father. His wife is living at 9 Florence st., Natick. He carries a pair of baby booties for good luck. He needs luck. He was wounded on one sortie. His ship is called "Measles" because it's spotted with flak holes painted red.

He has completed 29 missions into enemy territory and previous-twists and twirls with the Britishly had received the Air Medal with four Oak Leaf clusters.

There are no spectators as the awards are made. Just a cook or clerk inside GHQ pressing his nose against window pane. You wonder if and when young Paltrineri goes home there will be any hands to meet him. You doubt it.

Sgt. Paul C. Deane, 21, of Hillside ave., Roxbury, has never seen Paul, Jr., now four months. Nor has he received word lately about his brother Lawrence, called "Curly," who is reported missing on a submarine in the Pacific. He hopes brother Edward, 24, doesn't meet with the same fate. Eddie, too, is on a sub.

Deane played quarterback for Trade School before graduation in '41. He worked for White Motors (across from Braves Field) as a mechanic before enlisting in December of '41.

RADIO EXPERT

While studying at Chicago U's school of aeronautics, he met and married Rose Berstein. Close to his heart he carries a picture of wife and child.

"Gee, I'd like to see the baby," he exults. "Isn't he a bouncer? I'd like to see Boston again, too. I didn't realize I could miss it so much. I miss the Boston papers, too. Those I do see are weeks old and thumbed so much they're unreadable. Wish there was some way we could get them up to date."

Deane's parents are dead.

Bespectacled Leon Soucise, 29, of 8 Dunbar st., Keene, N. H., can't wait to get home so that he can marry Ida Sobol, a Lebanon school marm. Leo was an assistant manager in Keene's A. & P. stores before the war, now sees that the radio apparatus in the Eighth Air Force's planes are in proper working order.

Leon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Soucise, live at 8 Dunbar st., Keene.

Cpl. Manuel Rodriguez, 33, of 164 Central ave., New Bedford, used to work at Morse Twist Drill, now loads bombs onto planes that drop their loads on German-occupied cities.

His hobby is dancing, and he wishes wife Olinda was along to trip the light fantastic with him at Covent Gardens. So that his footwork won't get rusty, he hies to London once a fortnight and twists and twirls, but longs for the good old days at Duff's and State Ballroom.

Manuel's mother, Mary, lives at 44 Wing st., New Bedford.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 26 (AP)—Gov. Dewey returned here after spending the week-end at his farm near Pawling. The governor's office said Dewey, while at Pawling, discussed plans for a new driveway, repairs to barns and fences, and additional planting.

six in Mississippi, eight in New Jersey, and six in West Virginia. It was the same story in every delegation — Bricker delegates grabbed the bandwagon as it came by.

And this all happened before the convention actually assembled and three full days before the convention nominates its presidential candidate.

Bricker's backers were disconsolate. They argued correctly a large number of pledges had "run out" on the Ohioan. The Dewey-chasing delegates, however, distorted the battle was ended and there was no sense going on to certain defeat with a loser.

Bricker's spokesmen, however, still talked of a "swing" in the making. Rep. Clarence Brown, his floor manager, declared:

"We'll slug it out to the finish."

Sen. Taft, one of his chief leaders, said:

"Most of the delegates want to vote for Bricker, it isn't over yet."

With Dewey certain of nomination, it appeared Herbert Brownell, New York city lawyer and manager of Dewey's gubernatorial nomination, will be the new Republican national chairman. New York State Chairman Edwin F. Jaekle of Buffalo, often mentioned for the post, will remain in his present capacity, while J. Russell Sprague, New York's GOP national committeeman, will retain that post.

Brownell, Jaekle and Sprague are credited with managing Dewey into the nomination without ever making him a candidate.

And unless Bricker stages a startling gesture of unity, second place will go to California's Warren. Although the Californian has declared he is not a candidate for the honor, he has told some of his confidants:

"It looks like I'll have to take it if it's offered to me."

Dewey to Decide On Presentation

CHICAGO, June 26 (INS)—Convinced that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will be nominated on the first ballot Wednesday as the Republican candidate for President, his supporters hinted today that they may shatter precedent by avoiding a formal nominating speech.

Final decision will be made by Dewey himself, but the idea of having the convention itself place him in nomination was widely discussed today among the New York delegation. These leaders pointed out that such a move would emphasize his status as a drafted nominee.

If an effective nominating speech is made for Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, or some other candidate, the Dewey forces probably will send one of their orators to the platform with a nominating speech.

Critics of America Should Study History

DEFENSIVE AMERICANS, who are so immersed in international ideologies that they are unable to view plain facts, have deemed it fashionable to blame the United States for the advent of World War II.

Yet the historical record clearly reveals that by belatedly entering the first World War on the side of the Allies we promptly turned their impending defeat into victory.

When our associates had their back to the wall, we aided them with fresh manpower, abundant implements of war and foodstuffs, and we gave them the money with which to make such purchases.

But when it came to peace terms, the United States ALONE took an entirely altruistic position, refusing to ask for territorial gains or for reparations.

Later we were squeamish even about undertaking to collect the $10,000,000,000 which our Treasury advanced to Allied nations before and after the Armistice.

But our confused internationalists nevertheless seek to place the guilt at our doorstep.

They point the finger of scorn at our unwillingness to enter the League of Nations, overlooking the fact that the League proved to be mere window dressing behind which sordid practitioners of power politics carried on their depredations.

INASMUCH as a generation has grown up since the League fight took place, it seems wise to review the record.

The effective opposition in the Senate to joining the League was a direct result of the American people's objection to committing themselves in advance to go to war in defense of frontiers and other localized quarrels in faraway continents.

Woodrow Wilson characterized the Senators who raised this vital issue as "a little group of wilful men."

Now it appears that these Senators showed foresight and a high sense of sincerity.

They lacked the cynicism of other governments who signed while holding their tongue in their cheek.

In spite of things that were distasteful to them Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan joined the League.

But the pages of history disclose that they did not live up to the solemn commitments which they had undertaken when the test came.

In 1931, when Japan attacked China, Britain and France, ignoring their nominal obligation under the League covenant, stood aside.

Evidently they did not think developments in Manchuria affected their vital interests.

A few years later, when Italy assaulted Ethiopia, Britain belatedly intervened with economic sanctions.

The interventionists apparently felt that Ethiopia was close to Britain's important route of Empire communications.

HEREAFTER, when mushy and sentimental Americans undertake to belittle their own country, they should be told that the United States has stood out internationally for the integrity which its policies reflected.

This record has developed for the United States a vast reservoir of international prestige and respect.

In view of this, it seems important to warn the politicians, now in charge of our government, not to enter foreign commitments lightly, but to recognize that it is the tradition of this nation to mean what it says in its arrangements with other nations.

Until nations generally inject truth and candor into their international dealings, the hope for a "brave new world" may prove an illusory dream.

Washington Scene . . . By George Dixon

(Distributed by King Features Synd. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Strictly Prohibited).

CHICAGO, June 26—Well, the most disconcerting thing happened. I came out here to do some amateur fishing through the ice and discovered the Republicans were having a convention.

I kind of wish somebody had tipped me off to this because it seems there are quite a few Republicans. This was a Washington, you sort of get the idea there are only New Dealers—or, anyway, former New Dealers who are not quite sure what they are currently, but probably not Republicans.

I was unable to get up-to-the-minute figures on how many Republicans there are, but if the turnout here is any indication, they must come in bunches like bananas. There were Republicans as far as the eye could see—which was not far because convention delegates tend to reduce visibility.

It appears that one of the tasks these Republicans have set themselves is to choose a candidate for President of the United States. This seemed kind of superfluous to me because we already have a President—but, of course, I do not pretend to know anything about politics.

IGATHER, however, that the Republicans want a President of their very own. They give several reasons for this, one of which—so far as I could make out—has to do with horses.

It seems that the Republicans have a horse which they wish to change in the middle of a stream. I tried to learn which stream they have in mind but could get no clarification.

Another reason appears to be that they are tired of Mr. Roosevelt, although goodness knows he has been around long enough for them to get used to him.

The point seems to be that they do not want to get any more used to him. Consequently ly, after they have picked a candidate of their own they will vote for him, which means that every vote they cast will be one fewer for Mr. Roosevelt.

I am sure you will find this very instructive, because you may have gathered—from New Deal propaganda—that it is against the law, or anyway seditious and traitorous, to vote for anybody but Mr. Roosevelt. But such is really not the case.

In fact, I was assured on the highest authority that it is quite legal to vote for a Republican—this year, anyway. In another four years it may become a crime, punishable on the gallows, but there is nothing on the statute books to prohibit it right now.

Moreover there is nothing seditious or traitorous about voting against Mr. Roosevelt, although whether you can get him to agree with this is problematical. Mr. Roosevelt, it seems, thinks his other name is United States of America—and that even the mildest criticism of him is therefore disloyal.

BUT WHAT I really wanted to tell you about is the fish situation on the lower Potomac. This is important—so I must not let myself get sidetracked by the convention.

Before coming to Chicago I tried to get myself into condition by going fishing. I went to Cobb Island, which is about 80 miles down the Potomac from Washington and about 28 miles from where the river empties into Chesapeake bay.

My companion was Col. Harold Beckley, superintendent of the Senate press gallery. Col. Beckley is also in Chicago right now—charged with press credentials. Many people here, seeing him for the first time, might get the idea that he is an advanced St. Vitus case, but he was quite calm on the fishing trip.

In fact, he only goes nuts every four years—at national conventions.

GETTING IT RIGHT: To clear up a few arguments concerning Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. Less than three years ago he was a Colonel. He has been described as "a Kansan of German ancestry." Eisenhower has English, Irish, German and Scottish blood in his veins. His people have been in this country nearly 300 years. He is Texas-born and Kansas-bred. In 1915, when a second lieutenant, he married Mamie Doud, a Denver girl. During World War I, Eisenhower did not see action in France, having been assigned to duties in this country. To take over command of the invasion forces in this war,

Well, we were fishing, and the river therabouts was studied white with dead fish, floating bottom side up.

We talked to the commercial fishermen therabouts and they said the fish were being slain by shells and explosives fired from the U. S. Navy proving ground at Dahlgren, Va., 18 miles away.

This seemed plausible because you could hear the big guns booming away—and every so often see a big splash in the river over toward the Virginia side. Moreover, the Coast Guard boat had come around to warn us against going beyond the shallow water on the Maryland side.

Seeing so many defunct fish, we feared there would be no live ones left, but there were. We boated about 40 fair-sized ones. They bit on bloodworms and shrimp indiscriminately.

ANYWAY, I wanted to check on this seeming massacre of our finny friends, as I always call fish, so when I got back to Washington I called the Navy.

A spokesman said he did not believe the Navy was responsible for all the fish that had given up the ghost. All the projectiles from Dahlgren, he said, were "blind-loaded," which means they contain no explosive charge in themselves.

"The proving ground has been in operation for 25 years," he said, "and we have always been in this controversy with the fishermen. They say we are killing the fish. We say we aren't."

"We say that the number of fish we kill is negligible. We say that river pollution is the great killer."

"By the way," continued the Navy man, "what kind of fish were they?"

"I was afraid you were going to ask that," I said, "because I know it will give you something to kick around."

"They were croakers!"

Substituting for Louella Parsons, Now at G. O. P. Convention

HOLLYWOOD, June 26—When Irene Dunne reports to Columbia to make that untitled comedy about the wealthy widow who goes in for a giddy fling with an artist (announced by Parsons months ago), her co-star will be Charles Boyer.

Offhand, we can't think of any artist more exciting to have a fling with than Mons. Boyer, but that's beside the point. Dunne and Boyer haven't made a picture together since "Love Affair" well over six years ago.

Harry Coin, who believes in throwing the book into a movie when he gets a good story and a good cast, as witness "Cover Girl," is adding Charles Coburn to the lineup for good measure. It's Virginia Van Upp's first solo as a producer at Columbia and her first job is finding a title to tie Dunne, Boyer and Coburn into a box office bouquet.

CARL BRISSON gets back in September to take up his movie career where he left off years ago. Meanwhile, he's earned two titles of distinction—that of Rosalind Russell's father-in-law and recently "The Matron of Frank Sinatra" as a crooner de luxe in New York night spots. Certainly Brissan, in his day, had Frankie lashed to the mast as a swoon king. I remember interviewing him when he was making a Paramount picture. He showed me a box of candy with his initials pressed into the chocolates. When Carl was a lady-killer in pre-war Europe we used to toss the chocolate drops to the fainting femmes.

HELMUT DANTINE, a moody young man who works best when he "feels" a role, is beginning to have a strong feeling for "Mayerling." He would like nothing better in the world than for his boss, Jack Warner, to lend him to Seymour Nebenzahl for the role of the Austrian prince originally created by Charles Boyer. There's a very good chance of the deal going through, since Warners won't have anything on schedule for Dantine until late fall, when "Autumn Crocus" comes up.

ATTENTION you 16 MM camera fans: Russell Wade, young actor who starred in "Ghost Ship," has rallied some pals and formed a corporation called "Major 16 MM Productions, Inc." They are going to make feature length movies in color on 16 MM film and via 48,000 outlets for this type of film in the United States since they should do some business. So far the people who use 16 MM have had nothing but old newsreels and aged shorts for use and this is the audience Wade and his associates are going for. Their first, "Sundown Riders," starts tomorrow starring Evelyn Finney, one of the best of the athletic stunt women and a pretty girl.

SIDE-LINES: If Lana Turner and John Hodiak are as tired as they are supposed to be, how come Hi-Hody left to visit his family in Mineral Wells the day Lana returned from a Bond tour? . . . Richard Jaeckel, the baby-faced merchant mariner, is in the Alaska area . . . Charles Jackson will write that sequel to "Lost Weekend" back home in Connecticut . . . L. O. P. ends along some Hollywood color from the Republican convention: Cecil B. De Mille tossed a swank party for the politicians, and also to introduce Carol Thurston, who is in Chicago for "Dr. Wassell." Poor Jack Benny got tossed with the flu and is bedded at the Ambassador East. Roscoe Karns is getting as many handshakes as a candidate . . . Columbia is getting ready to launch a terrific "Find an Al Jolson" campaign. What they want is a singer with the verve and vim of Jolson at 25—doesn't have to look like Al but must be able to bend a sensational knee warbling "Mammy." Candidates please apply to Columbia casting in person.

STILL SNOOPING around

L. O. P.'s letters. I came across this from Gypsy Rose Lee: "Our trip East was uneventful," writes Gypsy, "My sister's little girl, April, my secretary, the dog and our luggage shared one compartment. In Chicago, between trains, we ran into Ennis Barnes, her major and Dean Jagger. After about 10 minutes conversation I wanted to head right back. But April is dead set on remaining in the East because she has an understudy part in my sister's show. April is a true Hoosier. Her mother and I are thinking of retiring and living off the baby's salary."

the Stork Club or The Mocambo. When she produced five cocktail dresses and six long dinner gowns, one more dressy than the other, I thought she was going to tour the night club circuit. There's a long black net dress with hand-painted butterflies in pastel colors that's a dream waiting. Another is a bright red with a wood violet sash that might be on the cover of the newest fashion book, "No slacks for me this time." Frances shakes her head. "The boys are hungry for the sight of a girl dressed up. The idea is to look like you are just about to join the boys for a date."

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS:

Carole Landis' husband, Maj. Tom Wallace, gets in today, which should end those rumors one way or the other; Dick Powell and June Allyson aren't trying to keep that flame a secret any longer; Bill Marshall and Michele Morgan have bought a gas station in the name of their baby, who becomes legal owner in September when he (or she) is born; cute little Diana Lynn thrilled to the toes because her new dressing room is next to La Goddard's at Paramount; two popular Eastern mag editors are visiting our town—Larry Reid and Fred Sammis; Dean Jagger won a case of Scotch in a sweepstakes drawing, and he doesn't touch it. Howard Rhineheimer, the attorney for "Oklahoma," is in Hollywood, but just for a rest and not to talk a movie deal, or so he says; Alec Templeton should read the rave letters from the boys at Birmingham General Hospital after his concert there; with Phil Silvers, it's Jo Carroll Dennison; George White and Audrey Young, who tiffed a while ago, were back together at the Biltmore Bowl; Ty Power leaves Atlanta for the East Coast today.

Have a Coca-Cola = He's coming home tomorrow

...preparing to welcome a returning soldier

When your fighting man returns home, it's the simple joys he seeks...reunion with his family...moments in the living room...a snack and refreshment in the old familiar kitchen...and ice-cold "Coke". So remember to keep some of his favorite snacks and have ice-cold Coca-Cola in the refrigerator. He'll respond as always to the invitation Have a "Coke". In camp or home town, the pause that refreshes is a symbol of a friendly way of living.

STYLES MAY HAVE CHANGED in houses but people still get the measles. That's what is delaying the auction of rare treasures from one of Boston's grand old mansions that has gone the way of most big estates and the lavish way of life they represented.

JEAN COCHRANE—engaged to Robert B. W. Chatfield, USNR.

Mrs. Richard C. Storey, her sister, Mrs. William Dexter, and Mrs. J. D. Cameron Bradley, their cousin, have ordered a sale via Louis Joseph's swanky auction block, of the lavish furnishings that graced the home of their mother and aunt, the late Mrs. Bayard Thayer.

'Tis reported that Mrs. Storey has the measles and the date of the sale postponed until she recovers and has time to get some of the antiques out of storage.

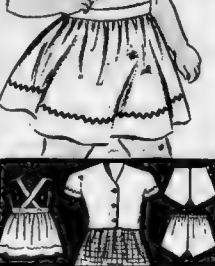

Remember the handsome brick house at the corner of Beacon and Brimmer? Built by the Thayers about 30 years ago, it was one of Back Bay's most finely appointed homes and the scene of many elaborate social gatherings. Visitors have often looked up at its massive facade and remarked that it looked big enough to be a hotel rather than a private home. Well, their remarks were somewhat of a prophecy of events to come for with heavy taxes and the retinue of servants required for such an establishment it is no longer practical as a home. The property has been sold and is being turned into the annex of a Back Bay hotel.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS: Mr. and Mrs. George Blake, of Beacon st., are receiving gifts of wood in celebration of their fifth anniversary today. It's the seventh for the Lawrence Rosses and Wm. Benclink Smith of Groton.

JEAN COCHRANE, youngest of the three attractive daughters of Mrs. Dudley Pickman, is the first to become engaged. Her fiancé, who was her best beau at many debutante festivities last winter, is Robert B. W. Chatfield, USNR, son of the Albert Chatfields Jr., of Cincinnati.

Jean came out last winter and belongs to the Vincent Club. She's the sister of Cpl. Nancy Cochrane, WAC, and Lucy Cochrane, often called Boston's outstanding glamorous girls, and of Cpl. Alexander L. (Budsey) Cochrane of the Army Air Force. Her fiancé attended St. Marks and Harvard before joining the Navy.

Grand Cream for the Eyes Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

THESE ARE eye-straining days. First it is hot... then it's cool and damp... and the extremes in climatic changes can work devilish havoc with the tender skin of the eye areas. Haven't your eyes felt unduly tired lately? Don't you find you're squinting more than usual... and that a network of little lines hug your "soul windows"?

Certainly you appreciate that you can't look like the theme of anyone's pet dream... no matter how chic the chapeau or the sun suit... if your eyes are rimmed with fatigue lines and shadows... if their tissue frames aren't soft and smooth and youthfully firm.

Take a look at yourself... a good look and see! Maybe you've forgotten the special care that eyes need and should have. No matter how little time you can devote to your beauty routine... care of your eyes should be allotted a good portion of it. It is a mistaken attitude and belief to presume that you can use an ordinary tissue cream for the important mission of keeping the eye-area looking young and sparkling. If it is radiant that you'd like to see yourself these days... pay a bit more attention to the orbs and their environs.

BESTFUL, SOOTHING CREAM

We've discovered a perfectly charming spot in Boston... where nothing but the eyes are catered to. It is definitely an eye-shop and the girl in charge does only eye work... as well as dispense special eye products... created by a famous beautician in whose swank New York salon top-flight celebrities are kept looking gorgeously distinctive and beautiful.

In this little shop you can have your lashes electrically plucked for greater neatness... dyed to intensify their color... washed and groomed in a special eye treatment routine... and you can purchase a honey of an eye cream... bland and light, although it is fashioned chiefly from rich, soothing oils... and an additional ingredient that actually benefits the eyes themselves... yellow oxide of mercury. Give some of its goodness to the lids.

Golden amber in color... this special eye cream of a lush, soft, almost transparent texture that forestalls any need of the rubbing-in application... is unscented... but what it does for the eyes and their surrounding tissue is a thrilling discovery you ought not miss.

For the name of this restful eye cream, soothing for lids as well, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IF YOU WANT TO GIVE glamour a head start... give yourself a summertime radiance that comes only when the eyes are bright... and the framing tissue is firm and youthful... and the lids are free from that crepey-weighted look. Be as blithely gay-looking as Universal Singing Star Gloria Jean.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sunday—Here is the letter from a young man overseas which I promised you because it carries a message to all of us at home:

"There is one great fear in the heart of every serviceman, and it is not that he will be killed or maimed, but that when he is finally allowed to go home and piece together what he can of life, he will be made to feel that he has been a 'sucker' for the sacrifice that he has made."

"I am telling you this because I think it is important that you should know it. Since beginning this letter I have had dinner at our officers' mess. There were four of us together at the table, all total strangers to each other, three officers and one woman reporter."

"It was not long before we began discussing just what I have written to you, and oddly enough I heard my own fears voiced by my two fellow officers, one a major and the other a second lieutenant."

"They both agreed that they wished people at home would stop being fed 'glamorous headlines' and holding 'hysterical prayer meetings for D-Day' and sit down and think of the endless tedium which is war, and which the aftermath of war will surely be."

"No newspaperman will cover himself with glory to get himself a raise in salary by reporting 'War exiles want home front reassurance.' Instead of 'I was under fire at Tarawa,' but he might be a boon to all concerned."

THE MEANING IS CLEAR. The men who do the fighting are wondering if we at home realize that they have given up months and years of their lives which they can never recover; they want to be sure that we at home are using this time in a way which will be of value to them.

Will we see that they have a better job, a better chance when they come home, for health, education, working conditions, professional standards and above all, a peaceful world in the future in which to live?

This requires of us thinking through a great many problems, but it is the only way we can keep faith with those who fight and die or come back to live when the war is over.

Jellied Meat Loaf Easy to Make Now

By MARTHA LEE

ONE OF THE CHARMING features of summertime meals is the jellied meat loaves which grace dining tables at home and in restaurants. During other times of tables at home and in restaurants. Jellied meat loaves may be made at home. Similar recipes were formerly called pressed meat loaves, and it was necessary to place a weight on top of the loaf while it was setting. The easier recipe given here does not require that step.

No gelatin is required in this recipe. When the stock is boiled down it is concentrated sufficiently so that it forms a thick jelly when cold.

Instead of boiling the stock down to the required measure, it would be possible to take out the amount desired, add unflavored gelatin for thickening, and use the remaining stock as a basis for soup.

VARIETY OF MEATS

Meat for jellied meat loaves may be beef, veal or pork. A combination of veal and pork makes a good flavored loaf. After simmering in water, the meat may either be ground or cut into small pieces. Some people prefer the texture of finely ground jellied meat loaves while others like the appearance of small but recognizable pieces of the meat.

JELLIED MEAT LOAF

8 lbs. veal shank or pork hocks
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup sliced carrots
1/2 medium sized onion, chopped
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper

1 tsp. powdered sage, if desired
Hard-cooked eggs

Put meat, celery, carrots and onion in kettle, cover with water, and allow to simmer until tender. Remove meat and vegetables. Boil stock until it is reduced in volume to about 1 cup. Strain and chill. When meat is nearly cold, cut into small cubes or grind; remove fat from chilled broth and reheat. Add salt, pepper, and sage if desired. Pack half of the meat mixture into loaf pan, then the cooked vegetables, then the rest of the meat. Pour stock over loaf, chill about 3 hours or until firm. Turn out on platter and garnish with hard-cooked egg quarters.

Jellied Meat Loaf

BUTTERCUPS

Trim crusts from slices of fresh white bread. Brush lightly with melted butter. Press into sections of a muffin pan. Place in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) until toasted, 15 to 20 minutes. Fill with creamed peas.

CHERRY PUDDING

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
2 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 tsp. lemon extract
2-3 cup milk
1 cup pitted large sweet cherries

Mix flour, baking powder and salt, and sift 3 times. Cream shortening until soft; add sugar gradually, beating until light; beat in egg and flavoring. Add flour alternately with milk, beating until smooth after each addition; add cherries to batter. Turn into greased square pan 8x8x2 inches. Bake in moderate oven (350 to 375 deg. F.) for 30 to 45 minutes, or until done. Cut in squares and serve with hard sauce.

New Touch to Play Styles

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE number of bare midriffs is increasing daily now that vacation time is here, and girls who have to be more or less careful what they bare in town are crowding the beaches and resorts.

It's not the swim suit with a bras top that makes the most striking kind of bare midriff effect among vacation crowds. It's the dress with sleeves and a chopped-off waist, paired with a skirt that gives the exposed midriff its most dramatic effect. This kind of thing looks like a regular dress at first, and then you spot the swathe of flesh just above the waistline!

You can see what the effect is by consulting Miss Dulin's sketch. This play dress is made of red and white checked cotton seersucker, with a short-sleeved waist ending under the bosom, and a gathered skirt beginning at the waistline, leaving the midriff very, very bare.

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, June 24—Ilona is a famous ballerina. In fact, she's a premiere danseuse in one of the better known companies. Like most girls in her profession, she's had a tough struggle to get to the top, and she hasn't had time for marriage, but there has been enough romance in her life to give her artistic soul a full measure of expression.

Last year she danced opposite Ben for the first time. That's his right name, Ben, but you won't recognize it because (being a Flatbush boy) he had to change it to Dmitri to get a nod from the ballet impresarios. Anyway, Ben is quite a hunk of manpower besides being an excellent dancer, and he and Ilona found a lot of things in common. They were a perfect team behind the footlights, across a dimly lit table in a cafe, or anywhere else.

THERE WAS one bump in the smooth course of their romance. Ilona had a steady heart throb. He was crazy about her, was Henry, and he was no Milwaukee toast, and there was no way of just brushing him off with a "Thanks for everything, Henry; it's been lovely."

And there was no way of going on indefinitely without having him suspect that something was up, because, although Henry didn't know Nijinsky from Mel Ott, he did know that you had to keep a sharp eye on a girl as excitingly attractive as Ilona.

Was Henry a veritable watch dog? So Ilona and Ben didn't have much time together—not nearly as much time as they would have liked. In due time the company ended its New York engagement and prepared to go on tour. He said his tearful farewell to Henry, and dashed to the train, and Ben's arms. From there on it was quite an idyll.

But you know how ballet companies are. Another ballerina, not quite so premiere, decided Henry ought to know. So she sent him a wire containing a play by play, and Henry put on his hat and ran.

TWO EVENINGS later the quiet of a Midwestern hotel (where the entire company was quartered) was shattered as Henry thundered into the lobby, inquired the number of his darling's suite, and clumped up the stairs with fire steaming from his nostrils. In six seconds flat the entire troupe was gathered in the lobby, drooling in anticipation of the mayhem to come.

But you can't print that. Because about an hour later a happy, singing trio emerged from the elevator. Ilona, Ben and Henry. And for the rest of the tour—and to this day—the three of them were the best of pals. And if nobody in the ballet company can figure out what happened, or why, you can't expect the public to, can you?

THE STAFF at the Orthopedic Hospital is still talking about Babe Ruth's recent sojourn there... One of the nation's most famous labor leaders is around making bets that F. D. R. won't run for a fourth term, of all things... Previewers report that Linda Darnell's appeal has gone up like the mercury on a July day in a new film called "Summer Storm." It'll do for her what "Algiers" did for Hedy Lamarr... The Tommy Farrells (He's Glenda's young son) have Rene in the bean-o... The American Civilian Employment Center has openings for several hundred white collar workers in jobs paying up to $3000 yearly.

Star Shine By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, June 24—When you walk on the sets to watch them make pictures, you are apt to see or hear anything, and that's part of the fun. Who would believe, for example, in an exchange of casual remarks that Sam Goldwyn would top Bob Hope, whose business it is to be funny and supply the toppers.

Yet on the set of "The Princess and the Pirate," Bob Hope and Virginia Mayo have just completed doing a scene, and who is there looking them over but Producer Goldwyn. The still cameraman, who works for Goldwyn, said: "How about a picture, Mr. Goldwyn, of you and Hope in his pirate costume?" It's okay with the producer and the comedian.

Hope and Goldwyn stand

next to each other, and Hope is giving out with a big smile, while Goldwyn stands there being Goldwyn. Hope looks at him and says: "Sam, why don't you smile like me?"

Whereupon Goldwyn replies: "Bob, if I was making your money I could smile, too."

IM TELLING YOU, you never know what you're going to see and hear on a set. Over on the stage where "Stark, The Hunter" is before the camera, there is a cheerful little group composed of Allyn Joslyn, Evelyn Keyes and Marguerite Chapman working in a mystery picture with laughs.

I listen to some of the chatter, and then go for a stroll about the studio with the attractive Maggie Chapman, who is known to her friends as "Sluggo." While we are walking, some stranger gives out with the wolf whistle (I told you that Chapman was attractive), and the Sluggo turns around and gives the whistling stranger a nice big smile.

"Do you always respond to a whistler?" I asked.

"I love to be whistled at," replies Sluggo Chapman.

"Why?" I ask.

"Because," replies Sluggo Chapman, "with some people's understanding, that's all that matters."

FROM HERE I wander onto the set of "Tonight And Every Night" where Rita Hayworth and Janet Blair are doing a number. And when you get a look at "The Reet" and Janet, you can't blame me for going on this set. In fact, if I didn't go to visit Hayworth and Blair you could justly ask why. After the take is over, "The Reet" and Janet gather about Director Victor Saville while waiting for the next set-up.

Later, Steve Crane joins the group and he tells of a nifty he heard last night. It's about the difference between a diplomat and a lady. Here it is:

A diplomat says yes, he means perhaps. He says perhaps, he means no. If he says no, he's no diplomat. A lady says no, she means perhaps. She says perhaps, she means yes. She says yes, she's no lady. "The Reet" smiles. And I don't have to tell you that when she smiles she looks better than Bob Hope when he smiles.

Boston After Dark

MONDAY MORNING MUSINGS: Now that "3 Is a Family" is beginning its ninth week on its way to the long-run record of the year at the Colonial, Boston can take credit that its eventual judgment is good, even if this the Russians were on the move once more.

HARRY ALGURA, boss of the famous Ritz Bar in Mexico City, has made a date with George Mahoney, the Newton captain of industry who commutes between here and the Mexican capital, to come to Boston this summer to see how our own bistros are operated... Morton Downey is expected to be a roommate of Al Smith's in St. Vincent's Hospital this week... The tenor is planning to undergo a checkup—nothing serious.

MR. WILSON had a tiff with the authors, and took the play off the boards... In doing this, he surrendered his rights to the piece... John Golden saw some promise in the play... How right was his judgment is attested by the original company's 58 weeks at the Belasco in New York; the Boston success of the good cast playing at the Colonial, and plans for a West Coast production, now under way... That John Pollack, one of the best known and most popular veteran press-agents and company managers owns a "piece" of "3 Is a Family" isn't making his friends a bit envious.

BOSTONIANS who visit the Hotel Sheraton in Manhattan get a lift out of the loyalty of Spencer L. Sawyer, the Sheraton's manager, to this, his hometown and favorite city... On the display board in the Sheraton lobby is the listing: Boston College Victory Room... In their infrequent visits to New York, the R. C. Eagles usually stayed at the Sheraton... Spencer keeps the supper-room he named three years ago a reminder, through its title, of the pre-war days when football contests were important.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Bad weather and the 30 per cent tax which becomes a 20 per cent tax only on July 1, were not a sufficiently strong combination to deter merry-makers from making the rounds of the nightclubs this week-end... The boom in business began Thursday night, and continued... This department's theory that business gets lively in direct proportion to the good news from the war fronts is thus borne out again... It was Thursday when news came of the naval victory off the Philippines, and the race through Italy of the Fifth Army coupled with the siege of Cherbourg helped put the citizenry in a celebrating mood... And then ERNIE MARZANO, the maestro of The Mayfair's relief band, has developed a smooth-working small unit which should be a "main" band before the summer ends... Almost $30 per week per man difference prevails under the Boston scale for members of a relief band as compared with a "main" band... Some slight mental relief may come to the benefit John J. McGrath's of Dorchester and Scituate if final developments bear out a police theory that little Frances McGrath met her death the same tragic night she was kidnapped... Another theory is that the police are using a "throw-off" in their discouraging statements that "all suspects have been eliminated"... This corner hears that at least two men are under serious investigation.

Ortiz and Bolvin in Final Ring Drills

By JACK CONWAY

FEATURING Manuel Ortiz, world's bantamweight champion, against Larry Bolvin of Providence, Boston's outdoor boxing season will open at National League Park on Thursday night. The Eddie Mack-Jack O'Brien-Callahan A. C. will stage the fight offering. Ten per cent of the gross receipts will be donated to the Disabled Veterans Fund of the American-Record-Sunday Advertiser.

Ortiz will engage in blistering workouts at Harry Kelley's Gym on Hanover street today and tomorrow, while Bolvin will put off his training on the same days at his camp outside of Providence. The rival boxers will take things easy on Wednesday so that they will be at the peak of their form when they enter the ring at National League Park on Thursday night.

Bob Quinn has helped the Mack-O'Brien combine in preparing the best possible seating arrangements at the ball park. The ring will be placed at first base. This will give the fans in the grandstand on the right of the screen a perfect view. No seats will be sold in the grandstand beyond the edge of the screen.

The action will be perfect for the fans in the first base pavilion. There will be 2000 seats on the ground. The ringside seats will be of the same type as those used in the boxes at the ball park. There will not be any last minute disputes over the officials for the bout. Unlike most champions who have come to Boston, Ortiz has not tried to put pressure on Boxing Commissioners Smith and Wadsworth to get particular judges and a hand picked referee.

Ortiz will decide the fight with his fists," said Manager Tommy Farmer. "The Mexican will prove he has the skill of an Abe Attell and the devastating punch of a Ketchel."

Bolvin's Great Chance

THE BOXING GAME presents more opportunities for quick advancement than any other sport. There is not any branch of athletics that enables an unknown youngster to become a national figure so quickly and then to earn a fortune out of newly won fame as boxing.

Bolvin, holder of the New England featherweight title, will be presented with such a golden opportunity when he enters the ring against Ortiz. The Providence youngster, who first invaded Boston in All-America amateur boxing shows, realizes the chance he will receive and he has trained hard and faithfully for the test. Bolvin feels he can punch harder with his right hand than Ortiz can with either duke. His record backs up his opinion. Ortiz may throw more punches than Bolvin, but he cannot get as much flistic dynamite behind a single blow as the Providence youngster.

A fighter with a punch always has a chance to win. He is like great ball players of the type of Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio. The wall of the frequently the deciding factor.

If Bolvin takes chances, and he says he will, he will get a crack at Ortiz' chin. It will be interesting to see how the Mexican reacts if hit flush on the jaw by a full-fledged featherweight.

Pep Bout for Winner

WILLIE PEP, who will be at the ringside Thursday night with Manager Lou Viscusi, has signed to meet the winner. Pep is recognized as world's featherweight champion in New York. He has boxing class and a sharp, stinging punch as he proved in his two Boston victories over Sal Bartolo.

The Pep bout will mean a $20,000 flistic plum to either Ortiz or Bolvin. It is something worth fighting for, and Bolvin and Ortiz will not leave anything undone to reach their objective.

It will be an all cash gate Thursday night. With the Disabled Veterans Fund receiving 10 per cent of the gross receipts, complimentary tickets have been eliminated. Tommy Farmer, Ortiz' manager, showed the proper spirit when he purchased $250 worth of tickets which he will give to Boston friends.

Ortiz insisted on buying his own ticket for the show. It is probably the first time in the history of the boxing game that a fighter ever paid to get into the ring.

Chance for Caseys To Tie Up Park Lead

What amounts to a playoff preview takes place tonight when the two leading teams in the Boston Park League square off in a crucial game at the Dorchester Town Field.

The two are the league leading Navy Yard A. A. and the runner-up Dick Casey Club. The Navy took over the Park League lead Friday night by trouncing the Hicks Engineering while the Dorchester team was in a victory for the Caseys would tie the loop up again while, if Navy wins, it will jump into a four point, two game lead, an almost insurmountable margin in a race as tight as this one.

Both teams will be at their best for the contest which figures to be a pitchers' battle from start to finish. Both teams have the flingers to make it that. Mgr. Frank Spano of the Navy Yard will start Red Chappie while Mgr. Casey will counter with either Cy Epstein or Don Donald.

While both clubs are equal in mound strength, Caseys have a great advantage playing in their own park. Another thing in their favor is their tremendous slugging power. The last two times the clubs met Caseys won by a large scores of 8-0 and 10-1, but it is

Chisox Rocket to 2nd

The Chicago White Sox are in the thick of the pennant fight today, having gained second place in the American League. The emergence of the White Sox as leading contenders for the league lead now held by the St. Louis Browns represents a stirring but laborious haul from last place, into which the White Sox were dropped May 28.

The White Sox were thrust into the cellar in May with the loss of a twin bill to the Red Sox. No sooner had they touched bottom when they began to fight furiously.

By June 12, they run up an eight-game winning streak, were in fourth place, and had bettered their position of May 28 by five full games.

CHISOX DRUB INDIANS

Now, the White Sox are second to the Browns by only two games, after trouncing the Indians in both ends of a twin bill, 11 to 0 and 4 to 3 in a seven-inning nightcap called because of wet grounds.

The Red Sox were knocked from second to fourth when they split with the Senators. The Sox dropped the opener, 5 to 4, then came in to take the afterpiece, 4 to 0, in a sparkling performance by Tex Hughson, who allowed only three singles.

The Yankees crept into third place with a double triumph over the Athletics, 4 to 3 and 5 to 2. All these slawfoot efforts didn't bother the Browns, who took two from the Tigers, 5 to 1 in 10 innings, and 5 to 2.

CARDS KEEP WINNING

In the National League, the mastery Cards pounded out a 2 to 1 win over the Pirates, then locked with the Pirates in a 5-3 tie in the second game, called at the end of nine because of Sunday baseball law.

The Cubs and Reds divided, the Reds taking the opener, 4 to 3, and the Cubs winning the second, 5 to 0, on Claude Passeau's sparkling four-hitter. Buckly Walters pitched his 12th triumph in the first game.

The Giants and Braves also split, the Braves winning the first game, 5 to 1, and dropping the second, 4 to 1.

The Dodgers swept two with the Phillies, 4 to 1 and 2 to 1 in 10 innings. Curt Davis pitched a seven-hitter in the opener and Melton went the route in the afterpiece on 10 hits.

Race Handicapper Dies in Chicago at 73

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Gundar Hagg set a new world record of 8:45.4 for the two-mile run in his first race of the season at Osterstrand.

In smashing his own record of 8:47.8 set two years ago, Hagg was clocked in 59.5 seconds for the 400 meters; 2:06 for the 800 meters and 4:01 at the 1500-meter mark.

Hagg, who toured the United States last summer, is scheduled to meet Arne Anderson in a 1500-meter race on Wednesday.

Peacock Again Wins Big Title

ELIZABETH N. J., June 26 (AP)—Eulace Peacock of the U. S. Coast Guard, former Temple University track star, retained yesterday the national A. U. pentathlon championship as he piled up 2852 points in winning three of the five events.

Peacock, a resident of Union, won the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet, 10 inches; the javelin throw with a toss of 149 feet, 6 inches, and the 200-meter dash in 22.6.

As the Negro star won his fifth championship in 11 years, he also placed second in the discus throw, but came in last in the 1500-meter run.

John Dick of Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis., captured the discus event with a heave of 118 feet, while Pvt. Hubert Gates of Langley Field, Va., took the 1500-meter race in 4 minutes, 34 seconds.

All-Stars Play Frazer

Red Sox Still Have Comeback Chance

This week will, in some measure, determine where the Red Sox are going to wind up in the American League. Laying off big league competition until Wednesday, when they play a 5:30 twi game with the White Sox, it is up to Joe Cronin and his crew to make up their minds where they are bound.

Playing the White Sox has been somewhat of a soft touch for the Red Sox who have grabbed seven straight games, but then, in come those amazing St. Louis Browns for week-end jousts.

By dropping yesterday's opener, when the Senators put over a late game rally, the Red Sox were able to only split the twin-bill. As a result they have plummeted to fourth place, two points behind the third-place Yanks, of course, trailing the Browns and White Sox.

LEAVE RUNNERS STRANDED
It would not require much of a surge for the local crew to get right back in the fight, but the boys will have to do it at friendly Fenway Park. They proved beyond doubt that they are fairly soft touches on the road.

One of the Red Sox chief failures is to score runners. The team gets plenty of hits, but not enough runs. For example, in yesterday's twin-bill with the Senators in two consecutive innings the locals left three runners stranded. This is not pennant minded ball.

Although the Red Sox have dropped seven of their last nine games and gone hurtling to fourth spot in the standing, New England fans still stand loyally behind them. When over 5000 fans gathered at yesterday's twin bill under conditions that were most miserable, it's an indication that this section is pennant minded. It's been 26 years since the Sox won a flag, yet the rank and file of fans apparently believe Joe Cronin has the stuff to win with this year.

While the Red Sox are playing the White Sox here on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the St. Louis Browns and Yanks will be tangling in New York. The Yanks hold a 5 to 2 edge over the Browns in games played to date, which would indicate that the impending New York series might result in a dog-eat-dog affair. This would help the Red Sox, if the latter can continue to hold their spell over the White Sox.

FINNEY SHOULD HELP

The fact that Lou Finney is gradually swinging back into playing form is one of the most encouraging signs in the Sox cause. Lou has been out of the game for nearly two years, but fans will recall what a terrific guy he was in a clutch. And this is just what the Sox need now. The Red Sox will hop to Davisville, R. I., Naval Base where tomorrow they play a double-header.

The Braves and Reds tangle in a night game at Cincinnati Wednesday night that holds more than ordinary interest. Buckey Walters is due to twirl for the Reds and this popular boy, winner of 12 games who played third base for both the Braves and the Red Sox before he was converted to mound duty, will be shooting against the brilliant Al Javery. This looks like a real ball game.

Rare Double Killings Made by Catchers

Only 12 unassisted double plays by a catcher have been recorded in the major leagues in 43 years of ball-playing so far in the 20th century, yet three of them were made by men working back of National League home plates this year. In all three cases, the play was made in different uniform.

Al Lopez and Spud Davis, now of the Pittsburgh Pirates, were a Dodger and a Phillie respectively when they made their unassisted twin killings in 1933 and 1938 respectively. Mickey Owen, a Dodger these several years past, was catching for the Cardinals when he got his two birds on one shot back in 1937.

Favor Michigan in Collegiate Golf Play

By HAROLD HARRISON
 TOLEDO, O., June 25 (AP)—The National Intercollegiate golf team championship has had a long-time residence along the Eastern seaboard, but the dope tonight seemed to be that the 1944 crown would find a resting place right here in the Middle West.

 And all signs pointed to Michigan as the probable winner.
 At any rate, an entire new set of champions was assured even before the first drive goes whistling down the fairway tomorrow at Toledo's Inverness Country Club at the opening of the 1944 tournament.

Yale University, 1943 team winner and most frequent holder of the crown, hasn't entered and Walter Ulrich who won the individual championship last year while playing for Carleton College of Northfield, Minn., won't be able to compete because of the press of his studies. He now is at the University of Toledo in an Army Air Force unit.

James Hagan of the University of Pittsburgh, chairman of the National Collegiate Athletic Ass'n golf committee, said the last of almost 50 individual entries doesn't include a single full team from an eastern school. Michigan won the Big Ten championship and it's Johnny Jenschold was getting most of the attention today in attempts to figure out the new individual titleholder.

Ohio State, Notre Dame, Michigan State, Northwestern and Minnesota were others who hoped to have something to say about the team championship.

Most of the boys played at least partial practice rounds today over Inverness' tough 6558-yard, par 71 layout.
